Students gain independence and skill with musical concepts, as they practice individually or in small groups at centers

Practice musical concepts

At one of the centers, the teacher can assess students individually, to gather data and inform instruction

Easily assess students

- Decide which concept you're using
- Print out materials for each center
- Put centers and other materials (like scissors and glue sticks) around room
- Explain how to use the centers
- Have students rotate to each center

How to use

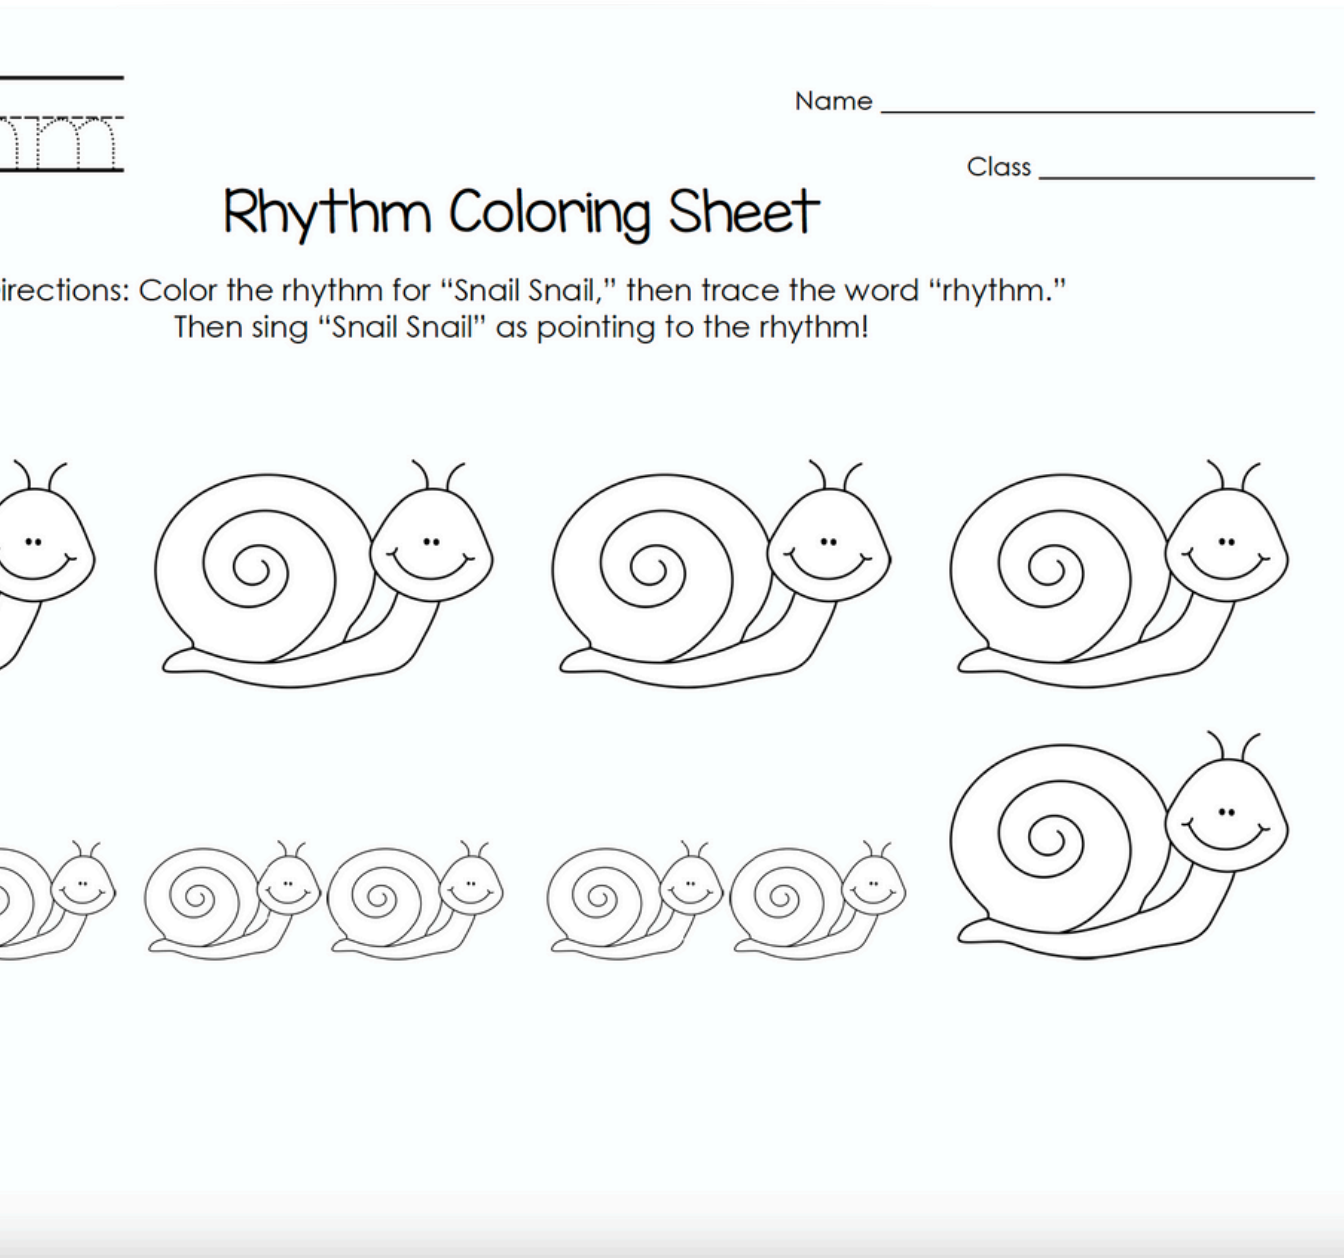

Three white speech bubbles with soft shadows are arranged horizontally. The first bubble on the left contains a testimonial about a perfect set for year-end review. The middle bubble contains a testimonial about a treasure trove of resources for music independence. The third bubble on the right contains a testimonial about the versatility of the resources for full-day teaching or individual assessments.

“Such a perfect set to end the year and review/ assess concepts and student growth!”

“This treasure trove of goodies has allowed my little learners to have much more independence in our music classroom...This is one of my favorite resources for music!”

“This has everything! So great for days when my voice is not up to teaching a full day, or when I need to do some individual assessments.”
